Three miles of Pumpkinvine Nature Trail opened on National Trails Day®

Over 100 trail supporters gathered along CR 26 between Goshen and Middlebury on June 6, National Trails Day, for the grand opening of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail from CR 28 to CR 33. This three-mile section of the trail, managed by the Elkhart County Park Dept., was funded with state grants through the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. Combined with the previous 1.75 miles of the Pumpkinvine opened in 1999, the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail now extends five miles from Goshen.

Friends president, John Yoder, thanked all the trail supporters who had made the day possible and called it "a fantastic addition to our county park system." And he noted that "although this extension of the trail has been a long time coming, when I ride it, I'm positive that the effort has been worthwhile." Also, speaking at the ceremony was John Hardy, president of the Elkhart County Park board., and Dan Seltenright, Director of the Elkhart County Park Dept.

Bike ride tops 1,000 riders for the first time

By Danny Graber

On the morning of the 2009 Pumpkinvine bike ride, not much time had passed when I detected something was different. People and bicycles just kept coming and coming. The parking area was soon packed. Could it be, I wondered, that we would break the elusive 1,000 ridership mark?

We did!

In our 10th year, we registered 1,025 bicyclists. It was a great time to celebrate. But before I could celebrate too much, I began to worry about whether we would have enough food for the bicyclists.

Last year I had hoped for 1,000 riders, and I ordered food for 1,000; 825 showed up. This year I ordered food for 900 people, and 1,025 showed up. Planning has its challenges, particularly when over 500 riders register the day of the ride.

We had volunteers in place and were ready to buy more food, if we needed to. In the end, we bought a minimal amount of extra food, and ample food was available to keep the bicyclists pedaling.

On the day of the ride there are a handful of us that get up at 4 a.m., arrive at the Abshire cabin at 5 a.m., and start setting up. Usually about 6:30 p.m. we lock the doors and drive away with a lot of Sunday morning clean-up tasks left to be done. It's a long day and hard work – but 1,025 riders is enough to make me feel good and forget about the hours.

From the president

Two very significant events have occurred this summer: 1) the grand opening of three miles of trail; and 2) a hugely successful Pumpkinvine bike ride. Both deserve comment.

New section of the Pumpkinvine

The new three-mile section of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail is open and getting rave reviews from bikers, walkers and roller bladers. I've lost track of the number of people who have spoken to me about their delight with this new section of the trail. One rider e-mailed: "The newest stretch of the Pumpkinvine Trail is absolutely fabulous! A ride out there last evening was one of the most uplifting things I've experienced in Goshen in a long time." Well, that's the idea.

I would like to thank board members Jim Smith and Bob Carrico who worked tirelessly over many years to make this new section possible. Their perseverance through lengthy negotiations with adjacent landowners was a key factor in piecing this section together.

Bike ride volunteers are the best

It was very gratifying to see the Pumpkinvine Bike Ride pass 1,000 participants. That's been a goal for several years. The comments from riders in other sections of this newsletter express appreciation for its organization, food, good road markings, the scenery and volunteers.

Indeed, our volunteers are special. They work hard to make the ride fun, safe and memorable. Let me mention four as a sample of our finest.

Year after year, Danny Graber, the ride chair, orchestrates the logistics of the ride, always thinking about what a rider would want. The weather is always a source of anxiety, and planning for food is an educated guess, because he knows from past years that up to half of the riders don't register until the day of the ride. But Danny manages to roll with the punches and put on a fantastic ride every year.

Georgia Gingerich deserves a medal for quick retail thinking. While helping with T-shirt sales at Abshire Park, Georgia waited on a rider who wanted to buy a size-large, yellow T-shirt, i.e., the 2009 model. Georgia explained that they were all out of large yellow T-shirts, but they did have a large in T-shirts from previous years.

The customer said that she really liked this year's yellow shirt, at which point, Georgia asked the customer to look at the size of the yellow T-shirt she was wearing, and said that if it were a "large," and she didn't mind it being slightly used, she could have it.

The customer looked at the size, and it was a "large," so Georgia took a T-shirt from a previous year, went to the women's restroom at the Abshire Park cabin, changed shirts, and sold the yellow 2009 shirt to the happy rider.

Many of our volunteers are bike riders and would enjoy doing the ride themselves, but when duty calls, they step up to help other have a chance to ride. Cosette Torrance and her son Philip, gave up their plans to ride at the last minute in order to fill at the Country-life Loop SAG when Bob and Marilyn Judson had to cancel due to an emergency.

These volunteers and board members are a major reason the trail and ride continue to grow.

— John D. Yoder

Chet Peachey joins Friends' board

The Friends of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail, Inc. has elected Chet Peachey to the Friends' board effective July 2009. Peachey was a member of the original Friends steering committee in 1989 and then served as a board member until 1994.

◄ Chet Peachey truing a wheel at Chain Reaction Bicycle Project.

"I've always supported the work of the Friends," he said. "Now that I'm retired, and I've seen the continued progress that's being made with the Pumpkinvine, I want to support and help bring the trail to completion."

Peachey's interest include cycling, daily exercise, reading about current events and history, travel, jogging and cross training.

Before retiring, Peachey was vice president for Patient Care Services at Oaklawn Hospital and earlier was associate professor of nursing at Goshen College. Currently he volunteers a half day each week repairing and recycling old bicycle at the Chain Reaction Bicycle Project in Goshen.

DNR heads visit the Pumpkinvine

On July 9, seven members of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources visited Elkhart County to check up on the Young Hoosier Conservation Corps in Elkhart County and see the progress of development on the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail.

It was the first time most of the group had seen the trail. "I believe everyone was impressed with everything that you have accomplished so far," said Steve Morris. " It was great to see all of the new trail being built." Larry Neff was their host on a tour of the trail.

The Young Hoosiers Conservation Corps is a state program to teach young adults job skills and responsibility administered through the DNR. The 14 youth in the program have been working on various projects on the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail this summer for the Elkhart County Park Dept.

Thanks for a fun day

The Pumpkinvine ride was GREAT. The weather cooperated but did provide a good headwind. You do a fantastic job with marking the route- the pumpkins are well visualized and were liberally placed at corners and turns. The SAGs were well timed especially at the top of the second-to-last hill on the 44-mile route!! That was very pleasant. Nice variety of food at the SAGs, and the pie and ice cream were delicious!. All in all – a great, fun bike-riding day. Always fun to chat with other cyclists. Thanks for a fun day.

The volunteers were fantastic

Jean and I had no idea what to expect, so our 250 mile drive to Goshen to ride in the Pumpkinvine Outing was an act of faith! Our confidence was amply rewarded. The ride was an extremely pleasant and scenic, and enormously enjoyable in every way! We loved the impressive Pumpkinvine Trail, the fascinating ride through Amish country, the delicious food at every stop, and the hundreds of good-natured bikers.

What most impressed us, however, was the great value that the army of volunteers added to our experience. There were scores of good natured, knowledgeable, responsive, and competent volunteers who were positioned at every location where a biker might need assistance or encouragement. We've never ridden in a sponsored bike outing that had volunteer support as effective, cordial and responsive as what we experienced with Pumpkinvine. From the moment we checked in, to intersection traffic assistance, to food and beverage service... it seemed that we were always encountering volunteers whose single purpose in life seemed to be to make sure that we enjoyed every aspect of the experience. It was awesome!"

Graves family rides 104 miles together

The Graves family (Goshen, Ind.), won't soon forget their ride of June 20, 2009. Megan (age 14), Lane and Shaw (age 12), rode 104 miles with their dad, Don – quite an accomplishment for young riders.

The family trained by riding the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail and part of the bike-ride route, and the Sunday before the ride they rode a 50-mile course.

"We practiced on hills and tried to do over 100 miles a week," Megan said. In general, the ride felt good, she said, but "coming into the last SAG was really hard. We'd get a gel pack and that made it better."

This was the third year that Lane had ridden the Pumpkinvine Bike Ride. Previously he did the 40- and 65-mile routes. "It's like a tradition," he said. Lane thought the ride was pretty easy, except going into the wind at the end. "Dad helped with drafting and encouraged us," he said. "He made sure we ate enough and drank enough."

Mom Sheryl, who was working at SAG 4, was excited and proud to see them when they arrived. "They looked tired, but the kids were determined to finish," she said. "They had something to prove to their dad."

◄ From left: Lane (age 12), Don, Megan (age 14) and Shawn (age 12) all rode the 104-mile route.

Young entrepreneurs serve riders

When their parents suggested selling food and drinks to riders on the 2009 Pumpkinvine Bike Ride, Jed (15) and Katie (13) Miller thought it would be fun to do, and they might make a little money, too.

The result was a roadside SAG where riders exited the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail onto County Road 33, five miles into the ride. Their 6 ft. by 3 ft. table, with a large umbrella, and a sign that read: "Garden Tea, Water Bottles and Granola Bars" were impossible to miss as riders came off the trail. Jed and Katie staffed the table from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., with a half-hour of help from younger brother, Westin (10).

And their idea paid off. Approximately 50 riders stopped for refreshments.

"In the early morning, people got coffee, and they didn't want to eat much," Jed said, "but by late morning coming back from Middlebury, they were hungry and ate mostly tea and cookies."

The most popular item was their home-grown Spearmint garden tea, slightly sweetened. After tasting the tea on the ride, one rider returned later in his car, just to have another taste. "It had a really nice, sweet flavor, but you could taste the mint," Katie said. Other favorites were the cookies – peanut butter, chocolate chip and monster cookies.

At the end of the day Jed and Katie were pleased with their effort. They sold about as much as they had expected, and they were pretty sure they will set up their stand again next year.

Kids liked the food and the hill on the Pumpkinvine

By Magdalena Dutchersmith (age 11)

What excited the many kids who rode the Pumpkinvine Bike Ride?

"Food's great; pie's best!" said Carlos Lichty, age 6 of Goshen, while eating pumpkin pie at the end of the ride. After eating his pie and ice-cream, Diego Torres, age 8, also of Goshen, said "the woods were fun, and the food is good!"

After the pie, the hill on the new section of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail was the most exciting part of the ride for many young riders. "The big hill was awesome!" said Carolos after finishing the 10-mile Family Trail Ride. He rode with his parents and friend, Diego.

"I liked going down the hill," said Luisa Dutchersmith, age 7 of Goshen, and she also enjoyed the pie at the end of the ride.

Jacob Lichty, age 9 of Goshen, agreed. "The woods and the hills were fun, and the pie was really good!"

While Carlos, Diego, Luisa and Jacob rode the 10-mile ride, Lena Yeakey, age 12 of Goshen rode the 26-mile ride along with her dad and her younger sister. "The ride was fun; it was the first time I had ridden more than 10 miles," she said.

This was my first Pumpkinvine Bike Ride, too. Our family rode the 10-mile Family Trail Ride. I didn't think the ride was difficult, but I did have to work going up the hill. I enjoyed waving to people we knew as we rode.

I hope to see even more kids at next year's ride!

Count me in for next year!

This is the 4th year I've done the ride, and I look forward to it each year. I enjoy the scenery the most. I live close by [in Osceola], however I never travel the country roads that this ride takes you on. I like to see the country side and everyone out working in their yards, gardens, see the flowers in bloom, etc. Everyone is so friendly, and you get the chance to make new friends from all over. Plus it's at the time of year where it's just starting to get warm, but it's not so hot and humid that you don't enjoy the ride.

Looking forward to next year's ride

During my second 67-mile Pumpkinvine ride (now as a 65-year-old), I enjoyed the challenge of pressing on to the finish, especially during the last two hours when the sun came out full force.

Each well stocked SAG stop was a welcome sight as friendly workers nourished us on. I found moments of delight as horses along the way peered over fences, as if to watch us pass and discuss our venture among themselves. Thank you . . . for a very well organized event once again. I look forward to next year's ride.

Annual meeting hears why the Pumpkinvine has received state funding

There are five reasons why the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail has received state funding, according to Bob Bronson, Chief of the State and Community Outdoor Recreation Planning Section of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources, Division of Outdoor Recreation.

Bronson spoke to approximately 200 guests at the 2009 Friends of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail annual meeting April 29 at Greencroft Senior Center.

The five reasons for funding the Pumpkinvine are: it satisfies Recreational Trails Program criteria; it meets the State Trails initiative; it fits the Lilly Foundation goal; it scores with Transportation Enhancement. "But mostly it was because of the local public support and the countless volunteers like those in this room," he said.

To see the PowerPoint portion of his talk, go to www.pumpkinvine.org.

Tote bags support the trail

Want to cut down on the plastic bags you drag home from the grocery and drug stores? Tired of trying to decide whether plastic or paper bags are worse for the environment?

We have the solution: the Friends of the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail tote bag. The bags are 15" tall, 13" wide and 10" deep, with a rigid stabilizer on the bottom. The bags hold the equivalent of two normal plastic shopping bags.

Show your support for the Pumpkinvine Nature Trail and a healthy environment by using one of these totes when you shop. You can pick up a bag for $5 at Family Bicycle, 3410 S Main St. in Dunlap, or at Along the Pumpkinvine, 145 Harrison St., Shipshewana.

We would like to thank these local businesses that supported the 10th anniversary Pumpkinvine Bike Ride.
